Last night there was a fair audience at the Memphis Theater to welcome Mrs. Bowers in her new and attractive play entitled Mart, or the Estranged. The piece was well mounted, and the entertainment passed off in a very graceful, easy style, de ighting the audience and eliciting frequent applause. Mrs. Bowers as "Mart!" was unusually secoptable and rendered the role in a manner at once artistic and effective. THE SOUTHERN PACIFIC.

Report of the Memphis Belegates to the St. Louis Convention Delivered to the Chamber of Commerce Yesterday.

Judge Henry G. Smith, Hon. Jacob Thompson and Judg . J. T. Latham, Differ in Opinion as to Tom See t's Policy.

The chamber of commerce met at half-past four o'clock yesterday afternoon to hear the report of the delegates to the St. Louis convention.
President Petrit called the meeting to order and stated the object of the meeting.

JUDGE HENRY G. SMITH,

chairman of the committee, said he had no written report, but supposed each gentleman desired to state what he had done in that con-vention, the action of which was in full con-formity with the action of the Memp. is convention, the acti n of which was in fail conformity with the action of the Memp. Is convention, with the exception, or rather addition, the adding of a line starting somewhere in the one hundred and third meridian and extending northeast by Veneta, on the route known as the Pacific and Atlantic line. It was important for the public to know the proceedings of the St. Louis convention conformed to the Memphis convention with the exception of a proposed line beginning some whereon the one hundred and third meridian and extending in a northeast direction toward St. Louis on the line of the Atlantic and Pacific road. This was not in conflict with the plan of the Memphis convention. The objections mentioned here to the bill of Mr. Tom Scott, introduced in the last congress, were avoided and excluded by the proceedings of the St. Louis convention, which, in shaping the proposition, avoided the objection by the consolidation of the Atlantic and Pacific line. The objection was to the consolidation of this with the Southern Pacific road. Mr. Scott's plan was to consolidate this. This was avoided by the St. Louis convention rommended an extension of a branch from the eastern terminus to Memphis to New orleans and Vicksburg. This objection was removed, and a direct line recommended to Memphis as well as to the other cities, and also one to St. Louis from the load meridian by way of Veneta. The third objection to Mr. Boott's bill proposed at the last congress, that it gave six years to complete the Veneta line and three years only to complete the Texas Pacific to the one hundred and third meridian, was also removed by the convention, which recommended the complete the Texas Pacific to the one hundred and third meridian, was also removed by the convention, which recommended the complete here. ica, curing thousands annually. third meridian, was also removed by the convention, which recommended the comple-tion of the Texas Pacific read, the construcconvention, which recommended the completion of the Texas Pacific read, the construction of a tine to Memphis, and also the other branches. It is worth while to note that the objections raised by the newspapers, have been corrected and removed by the proceedings of the 'L. Louis convention. Some persons object that the St. Louis convention was run in the Interest of that city. It was just otherwise, General Anderson, a Virginia gentleman, being provisional chairman and in favor of our line. The permanent chairman, Mr. stanley Mathews, of Cincinnati, like the people of his city and of southern Ohio, favoring our line and Shreveport as the most eligible route and practical terminus. The chairman of the most important committee (on resolutions) was Hon. Jecob Thompson, a citizen of Memphis The resolutions of this committee shaped the poincy of the convention Not only were these gendemen in harmany with our line and in favor of the southern extension of the line, but also the vice-precident, General Preston, of Kentucky. All the office s, and, in fact, the organization of the convention were in harmony with our line and the Southern Pacific. The vast majority of the members of the convention were in favor of the southern sapedis of the matter and the southern interest. While our peculiar interests concern is most.

of the matter and the southern interests

San Francisco in a southerly direction, about three hundred miles to the thirty-econd paraliei, and are widing and able to build within half a year the line (eighty miles) to Fort Yuma. If they get control of the southern line they will extend their line to Galveston or New Orleans, but would not like to see an eastern extension. The line of the Central Pacific is so long, and Iraignt so heavy, they can't ship wheat and come thio competition. They think a short live from Catfornia to sait water would enable them to put their wheat is to European markets at competitive prices. This is one great reason, and the desire to break down M. Scott, get control of the line, extend it to Galveston, and leave us to get along as best we can. He could say more, and would add that our interests and that of the woole line from Maryland to lexas, as well as that of the whole southern country, including the New Orleans and Vicksburg lines was to concur with Mr. Scott, and he p him to put through what he has reasonable hope of accomplishing. They should pisce full confidence in Mr. Scott, for we have his interests and his fullest assurances, from which he cannot depart without destroying his character as a gentleman of candor and integrity. These we egiza, considerations with him, for Mr. Scott's free, candid and sincere assurances to him and other gentlemen jus iffed this confidence.

HON. JACOS THOMESON

HON. JACOB THOMESON

"WASHINGTON, December 8.—Tom Scott's Texas Pacific railroad bill was presented in the senate to day. It is a precise copy of the bill reported in the house last winter by Mr. Houghton, of California, from the Pacific railroad committee. It was introduced to-day by Mr. West, of Louisians, and will be referred to the committee on railroads, when appointed."

if that's true, Scott has begun by an act of bad faith. If such were done by Scott's con sent, and with his approval, he did not care if his scheme was defeated. He could not believe this to be true. If so, Scott's scheme would fail. If true, Scott has acted in bad faith to ward the convention, and toward every gentleman he had seen from this section. He had no analogy to make for Section.

takes deep interest inithis road, for it was one of vital importance. We needed a line to Jef-ferson, and would like to have an independent line. They would like to have the line, not they would have to build a road to Jeffe son, where they would connect with toads running three or four hundred miles.

JUDGE T. J. LATHAM

made a few remarks, saying that harmony of feeling and unity of action were necessary to secure the road. He had not approved a the resolutions introduced in the convention, be-cause he thought the same committed the whole south to a movement in the interest of

of the matter and the southern interests. While our peculiar interests concern us most, we have no conflict, or occasion of conflict, with the extension of branches to Vicksburg and New Orleans, or to St. Louis, theugh the line to the latter of y should divert trade which otherwise might go over the southern routes. The line in which we of Memphis feel an interest consolidates all the substantial interests of southern Illinois, southern In-lana, Kentucks, Virginia, North Carolina, northern Trans, all of Arkansas, besides the north of Sauth Carolina, ceorgia and Mississipp, and all of Tennessee. We do not desire to have any conflict, but will not in till narmony with every portion of the whole southern country, the power of whose influence would not result in the accomplishment of the measure. The question is, what course is the measure. The question is, what course it to our interest to pursue relative to scots bill? He was certain that Mr. Scott's inter cests were the same as those of the southern people—they had to sail in the same roat. He could not secure his line without our support, nor can we secure our ine, and this great line projected to the Pacific, without his aid.

L. Hawkins, Joseph Flynn, L. G. Baldwin. P. Fury, T. A. Nelson, He is necessary to us, and we are necessary to him, in the enterprise. He fully comprehends that this is a fact, and does not think that he can put the enterprise through without the aid of those interested in the Southern and Memphis line. He unquestionably knows this. -Sunday, a wounded man giving his name as Henry Allen v sited the Adams-street stationhouse and stated that he had been shot by a young man named M'Neal, near scanian's landing on the Mississippi river, thirty nill-s below this city. He went down to the M'Neal plantation to pick co ton, but upon reaching there last Friday young M'Neal assaulted him with a pistol. A fight ensued, and the pistol was knocked from the hands of the assailant. As it fell upon the floor the pistol fired, and the ball entered his left ankie. This is the story he tells about the cause of his wound. Allen is now in the city hospital.

Judge Henry G. Smith said he had no idea the dispatch copied into the AFFEAD was true, for it seemed to be ebsolute singlidity. Such was contrary to what Mr. Scott had promised him and others.

President Pettit said that he had been requested to appoint a standing committee on the surject of the Southern Pacific railroad to watch the matter here and in Washington, He therefore appointed the following as the commit tee: Jion, Jacob Thompson, chair-man; F. They will have with them a great amount of surgical apparatus, appliances, etc., and competent assistants and workmen to change, fit and make such apparatus as may be required. They will come especially prepared to treat all surgical cases: Paralysis, all kinds of deformities of the face, spine and limbs, diseased foints, diseased eyes, catarrh, private ilsesses, piles, fistula, etc. On account of the great expense attending such a trip, they will not make another; therefore, all who wish to avail themselves of the advantages of the institute, without the long journey to Indianapolis, must do so at this time. Take the States enumerated, and the same make up a power essential to Mr. Scott's enterprise, and one which overgoes seventy members of congress. He knows this, and therefore we may rely that he will conform to whatever proposition we may make to him. That is his interest, and being his interest it is not a question of doubt whether he will favor that aspect of the question which we have at heart. that aspect of the question which we have at heart. He understood that Mr. Scott and the companies he represents own all the charters of the roads leading from the Missis-ippi river to the Pacific. Hence it is impossible to accure a line to the Pacific on the southern live except through these charters. Should Mr. Scott be broken down, and have to give up these charters, there might be dauser to us. He understood that the Central Pacific, and had no doubt but what this company are looking to the southern line, which, built by an independent company, would gre sty diminish the business and profits of the Central road. They understand that the building of a southern line will cut off from the entral road is tleast two-thirds of the passenger travel to the Pacific. This because the southern line is shorter, passes through a more desirable country, and is never blockaded by snow. He was informed by a gentleman that in the month of October, when traveling on the Central Pacific, he passed through fifteen hundred miles of snow. This road has immense wealth and resources, and is ready and willing, and would be prompt to selze an opiortunity to take noli of this southern line, put it through and extend it to the "salt water," either at Galvesion or at New Orleans. The desire of the Central Pacific is to break-down Mr. Scott and get possession of all his roads. It is easy to see how this line would be promotive of its own interests and detrimental to the enterprise which seeks to build up the southern country. The Central road has already constructed a road from san Francisco in a southerly direction, about three hundred miles to the thirty-second parallel, and are willing and able to build within half a year the line (eighty miles) to Fort Go To Ledoin's Business College. regretted that the people had not taken more interest in the matter. The whole subject had been covered by Judge Smith, whose statements and facts he hoped would go to the country and be published in the newspaper. We have good reson here to be suspicious of Mr. Scott, but our great trouble is the effort to break down Mr. cott, who owns all the charters of lines running through Texas in the direction of the Pacific. There is no strength to any load unless it be recognized and know as a southern road. This was the sentiment of the convention. If Scott all to keep it before the people that this is not a suthern road, Mr. Scott will not secure the aid he invoke. Suspension of Scott and the Pennsylvania Central road has caused the opposition to the enterprise. He concurred with Judge Smith that we were in the same boat with ecolt, whom we could hold, but if we were to get out of his hands we would fall into hands for whom he did not have the same regard as he has for Sott he regretted Scott did not agree to propose a bill giving back the grant of the Pacific and Atlantic road for the one to the thirty-fifth parallel, but scott does not have possession of this road. In yesterday's Appean they have a correspondent's statement from Washington to the following effect:

tieman he had seen from this section. He had no apology to make for Scatt, for somebody had acted unfairry. He believed it was Mr. Scott's interest to have the southern road built, and if he had induced Mr. West, of Louisiana, to introduce the bill, this did not make it a southern road. He was not prepared to believe it. Unless it were a southern road Scott could not secure it. He found that the men who were most enthusiastic lived in the north and east, and those who live on the line of the Central Pacific, would have inserted in the resolution that it shall be a competing line with this road forever. If Tom Scott has the road, it would be a competing road. He wanted Memphis to take a deep interest in this road, for it was one LEE LINE-FOR NAPOLEON.
